Indian Weavers

Weavers, weaving at break of day,
Why do you weave a garment so gay?¨
Blue as the wing of a halcyon wild,
We weave the robes of a new-born child.

Weavers, weaving at fall of night,
Why do you weave a garment so bright?
Like the plumes of a peacock, purple and green,
We weave the marriage-veils of a queen.

Weavers, weaving solemn and still,
What do you weave in the moonlight chill?
White as a feather and white as a cloud,
We weave a dead man's funeral shroud.

- Sarojini Naidu

There is a major dilemma between the craft and the machines on how to coexist in this world where technology is advancing with every passing day.

Change is the only constant. If a society rejects change there is no growth or progress.

With the powerlooms taking over, what then happens to the craft of weaving and how relevant is it to today's society?

We believe the only way to move ahead would be to elevate the craft of Handloom and create awareness about its essence and beauty.

It's more than just a commodity. Along with the physical effort, it also takes creativity and human connection to create every product.

Crafts like weaving should be revived and preserved just like Art for future generations.

Humans need tangible outlets to express complex emotions and experiences to make sense of them and gain perspective. And art sweetly, though not always neatly, delivers.

Art is like a snapshot in time in which the artist created with their perspective as well as their skills. And some collectors seek to preserve the invaluable artifacts of history through carefully curated collections.

And as our technology continues to evolve, all handmade goods will eventually become rare and precious simply because of the fact that it wouldn't be produced as commonly as it does now.

So how do we revive weaving before it becomes extinct?

Vision

The Vision

Showcase the essence and beauty of weaving

Bring focus on the creativity and human effort behind every product

Promote weaving as an art form that adds value to one's life

Provide opportunities for training and learning

Establish it as a fashionable piece of clothing

Educational study tours for school children that help develop interest in weaving at a younger age

Inspire people to take it up as a hobby

While the Narayanpet weaving style would be the main focus, the center will also display and celebrate the various other crafts of Telangana.

It will also act as a community space where people from all walks of life come together to celebrate life.

A place inclusive for all.

And a learning hub for our younger generation.

THE WEAVE, NARAYANPET

This center becomes a precedent for a chain of future centers which forms a network and creates a connected experience creating awareness about the different crafts of Telangana.

What we heard?

Since 1980, our importance started declining and the younger generation doesn't want to continue the traditions anymore.
They can earn more by working for just 2 hours in the city.

We're all lost. Our houses and livelihood is designed around the functioning of a loom. We work and live here only.

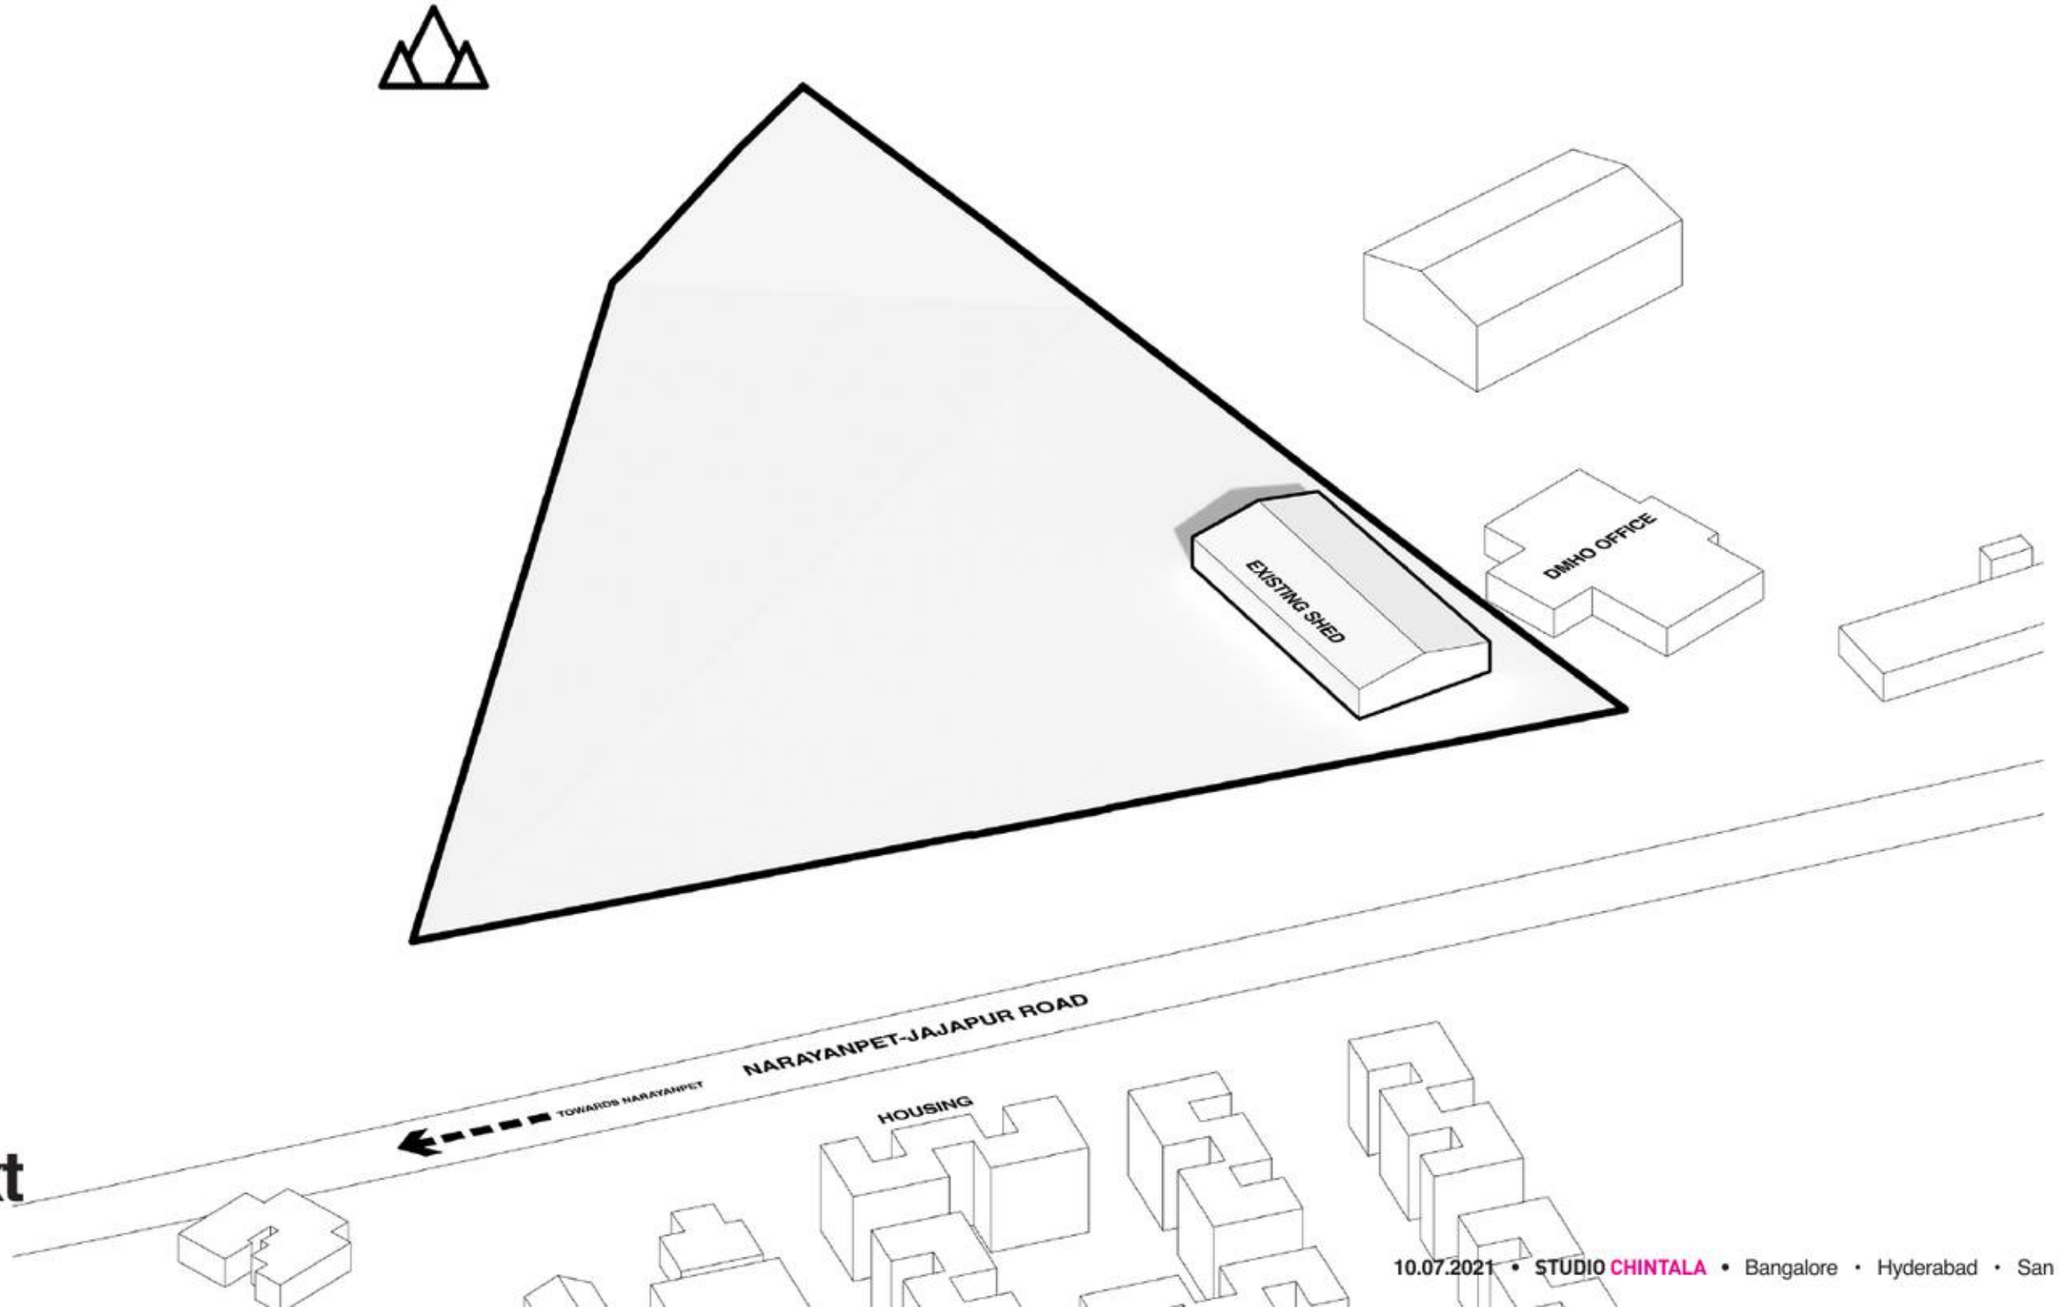

People are migrating to bigger cities for better job opportunities and pay as they don't see a future in weaving.

The situation is very dire and we feel like we're on the verge of dying almost like on ventilators.

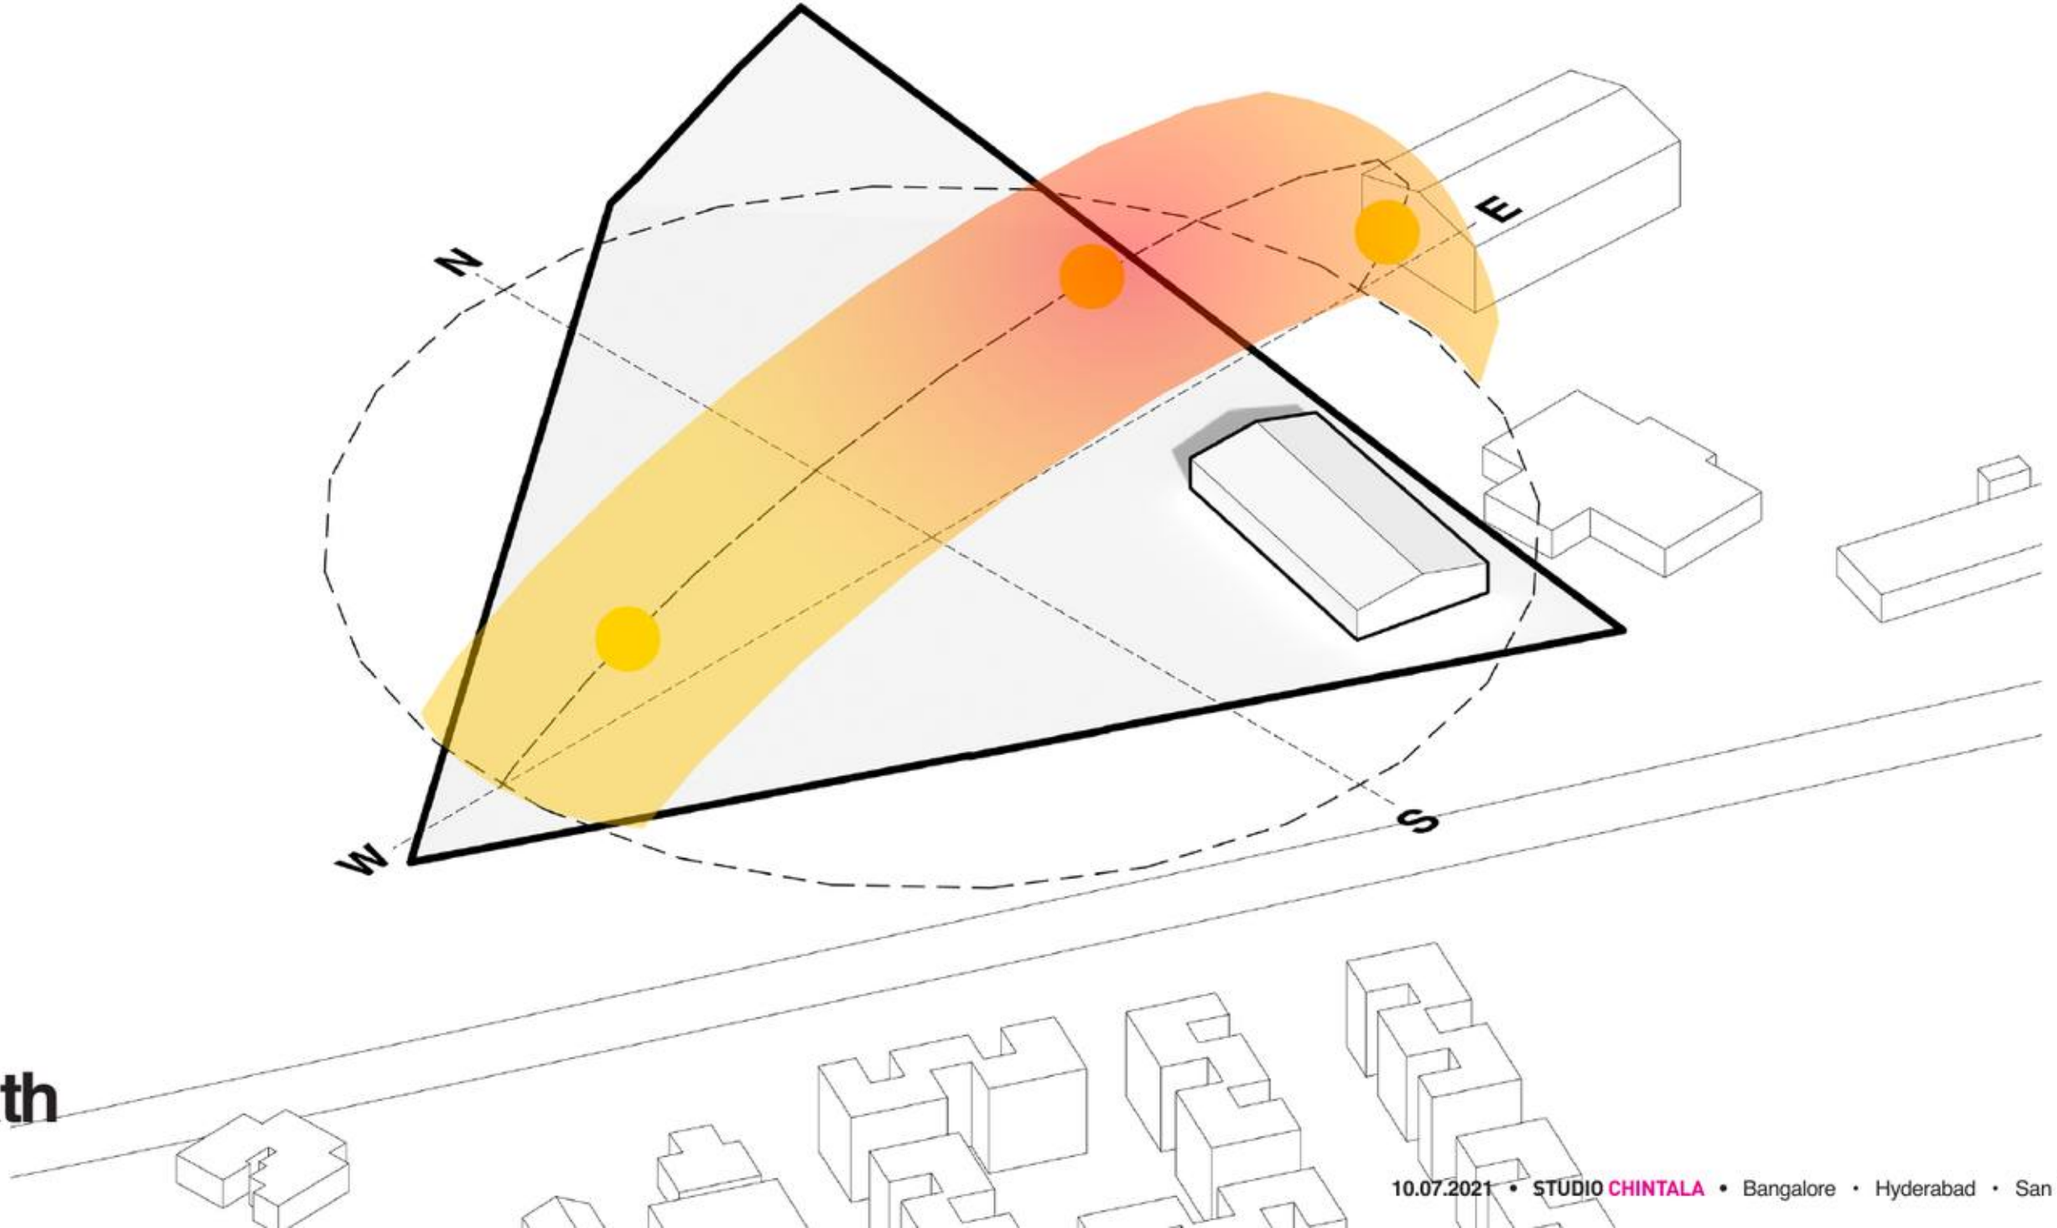

If people start getting paid better, the situation will slowly will start getting better and the weavers will come back to weaving.
